

Case 18 – GOJ, Very Hard

Diagnosis – Wrap migration

The prone swallow is a crucial part of the examination in patients who have had anti-reflux surgery. It offers the best chance of detecting wrap migration, where the wrap is detected to lie partly or wholly above the diaphragm. This requires urgent surgical attention if detected.